

SKYLAB TROUBLE — The aluminum meteoroid shield which formed a complete shield around the living area of the Skylab apparently stripped away, preventing the solar array "wings" on each side of the space station to deploy after the Skylab was launched at Cape Kennedy, Fla. Plans are being made for the three Skylab astronauts to fly a repair mission.

Skylab Repair Mission Planned

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The scenario is being written today for a Buck Rogers-style space adventure in which three astronauts will fly a repair mission to the disabled Skylab space station.

It will require one of the astronauts to take a space walk to install a shield between the overheated spacecraft and the blazing rays of the sun.

Television pictures may provide much of the world with a ringside seat to the unfolding drama.

The flight may start Sunday. Or it may be delayed until Friday, May 25. If it works, Skylab 1 astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz could save their 28-day orbital trip and the 56-day voyages planned later in the year for the Skylab 2 and 3 crews.

Plans for the flight are being drawn up by specialists at space agency centers at Cape Kennedy, Houston, Tex., and Huntsville, Ala., and at the contractor plants of Martin-Marietta in Denver and McDonnell-Douglas Corp. in Huntington, Beach, Calif.

"I've asked all concerned to come up with detailed recommendations and a detailed timetable by Thursday afternoon," Skylab project director William C. Schneider told newsmen Wednesday.

He said the only barrier to the flight is the 100-degree-plus temperature in the interior of the 85-ton laboratory, which was launched unmanned from Cape Kennedy Monday into a 272-mile-high orbit.

And temperature seemed to have decreased and stabilized at between 100 and 110 degrees.

A launch mishap stripped an insulation shield and protective thermal paint from the side of the workshop, allowing the sun's heat to penetrate the vehicle.

Kissinger, Tho Meet

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho met today for the first time in three months in an attempt to close the holes in the Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

President Nixon's national security adviser and the member of the North Vietnamese Politburo were expected to continue their latest round of talks for three or four days. Kissinger reportedly wants to be back in the United States before his 50th birthday May 27.

The two men who negotiated the peace agreement in Paris met last when Kissinger visited Hanoi Feb. 10-11. Following a crescendo of allegations by each side that the other was flouting the agreement, the United States and North Vietnam agreed to have Kissinger and Tho meet again in an attempt to make the cease-fire work.

Deputy Asst. Secretary of State William Sullivan and Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach laid the groundwork with a meeting in Paris late last month to establish a list of each side's grievances against the other. Informants said they settled none of the issues but helped to clarify each government's understanding of the other's position at that time.

Some diplomats believe that Hanoi may feel its bargaining position has been strengthened since then by the Watergate scandal and by congressional moves to end all U.S.

military action in Indochina.

Nixon warned Hanoi in his State of the World message May 2 that continued infiltration of North Vietnamese troops and arms into South Vietnam would risk a "revived confrontation" with the United States. The diplomats said there are signs that Hanoi thinks Nixon would have difficulty carrying out his threat, and there has been no report of a decline in Communist infiltration.

The usually mild-mannered Tho raised his voice angrily when he arrived from Hanoi Monday, denouncing alleged American bombing raids on areas of South Vietnam controlled by the Viet Cong. He ignored U.S. denials of the attacks and said if they were repeated, he would walk out on Kissinger.

Several Factors Enter Latest Gold-Buying Rush

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold hit record highs in Europe this week above $100 an ounce, and the U.S. dollar was in trouble again. Here is an explanation of some of the factors in the situation:

Question: What is so good about gold?

Answer: Gold has two roles. One is historic, as a backer of money, since the days when coins were worth their weight in gold. Nowadays in many parts of the world paper money is still worth no more than the amount of gold it can buy. When people worry that the buying power of their money is shrinking, they often prefer to hold gold instead. If enough of them change their money for gold at the same time, they drive up the price of the metal.

Q. What is the other role of gold?
A. Like coffee, tin or any other commodity, gold can be traded on open markets in Europe. When orders to buy outweigh orders to sell, the price goes up. In recent months the demand from dentists, jewelers, industry, hoarders and financial speculators has been greater than the supplies of newly mined gold reaching the market. So the price has gone up.

Q. Why the big rise in the price of gold now?

A. Gold has been climbing for the past two years. As confidence in the twice-devalued U.S. dollar declined, more and more individuals and companies decided to pay out dollars to buy gold. This weakened the dollar and doubled the gold price over the past year.

By last Friday, gold had reached a record high of about $97 an ounce in Europe. The Watergate scandal was undermining confidence in the dollar further. Traders were virtually certain the gold price would break through the psychologically important hurdle of $100 an ounce this week and then climb even higher.

Decisions were made over the weekend to buy millions of dollars worth of gold on Monday. The price broke $100 that day and went as high as $124 an ounce briefly in Paris before beginning to settle down by the middle of the week. The longterm outlook remained unclear.

Q. Who bought gold?
A. Wealthy interests in the Middle East who are paid in dollars and felt safer holding gold, international corporations with spare cash, speculators and such hoarders as French peasants who traditionally buy gold in times of political or economic uncertainty. The big buyers keep their identities secret. Dealers were divided Thursday over the importance of Middle East buyers.

Q. Can anybody buy gold?

A. No. Americans have been barred from buying gold legally since 1934. A measure now before Congress may change this. But for the moment, Americans can take advantage of rising gold prices by buying stock in profitable gold mines. Most European and Asian governments allow their citizens to buy and hold gold.

Q. Who sells gold?

A. South Africa mines 78 per cent of the non-Communist world's supply of new gold. The Soviet Union is another key source of new gold. Australia, Canada and some other countries are less important suppliers.

These countries, together with hoarders and speculators, often keep their supplies off the market when prices are rising. This can drive prices up further for more profitable sales later. Russia and South Africa appear to be holding back now.

Q. Will the gold price always go up?

A. Not necessarily. Governments are working to reform the international monetary system. Should they find a new reserve unit for money to replace gold, the price of the metal will probably drop. Any time the South Africans or the Russians decide to unload supplies on the market, the price should drop sharply.

Q. How does a gold buying rush affect the dollar?

A. If holders of dollars use them to buy up large quantities of gold, the market is flooded with dollars and the value declines. And since 1968 there have been two gold markets, official and free. On the official market, used for transactions between governments, the price of gold is now $42.22 an ounce. Industries, speculators and others trade on the free markets where the price is now over $100 an ounce. The higher the free market price rises, the greater the pressure to raise the official price. When the official gold price goes up, the U.S. dollar is devalued.

Q. What happens if the dollar is devalued?

A. Americans must pay more for imported goods and vacations abroad. It costs more to run U.S. businesses overseas. But U.S. exports become cheaper and more competitive.

Q. Is another devaluation likely?

A. Not yet. Since the last U.S. devaluation in February, a number of technical steps have been taken to steady world money markets, among them foreign exchange controls and floating exchange rates. A continued gold rush, however, could eventually unravel these arrangements and force another dollar devaluation. Most experts now rate the possibility as unlikely.

Q. What are the immediate effects of the gold price rise?

A. Jewelry prices are going up, but not as fast as gold. The increase in a pair of earrings, for example, will depend on how much gold is in them and when they were bought. Gold dentures may also cost more, but they would have gone up anyway from other factors, such as laboratory technicians' salaries.

Seek Compromise On Lottery Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House and Senate named a conference committee Wednesday to work out a possible compromise on a bill to implement a state lottery.

Sen. Ronald Mottl, D-24 Parma, chief sponsor of a lottery, said he hopes the committee can re-insert an emergency clause that would make the bill effective upon signing by the governor.

The House action, which approved the Senate implementation measure last week, but refused to give it an emergency classification, had the effect of stalling a lottery for perhaps a year, Mottl said.

Without the emergency tag, the bill would have to wait 90 days after signing by the governor before coming law. Mottl feared the session would possibly be over before any lotteries.

Mottl, who is on the six-member conference committee, said the first task would be to work out a compromise that could put the emergency tag back on.

"If they (opponents) are unreasonable, a lottery could be delayed up to nearly a year and cost the state $50 million in revenue," he said.

"I think that would be tragic, especially in view of the 2-1 mandate it received at the polls," he said.

Mottl was referring to the May 8 primary where Ohioans overwhelmingly approved lifting the constitutional ban against state-run lotteries.

Named to the conference committee—which Mottl hopes can pave the way for lottery tickets to be sold by November—were, in addition to himself:

Sens. Robert Corts, R-13 Elyria, and William H. Mussey, R-14 Batavia, and Reps. Thomas Fries, D-35 Dayton; Barney Quilter, D-47 Toledo, and Joseph Tulley, R-59 Mentor.

In floor action, the Senate passed a bill outlawing discrimination against women in the extension of credit. The vote was 32-1.

The House, meanwhile, approved 88-2 and sent to the Senate a bill allowing liquor permit holders to provide free snacks for customers.

The Senate passed by 30-0 votes bills that would reduce the basic support charge for the first 120 days of care and treatment of the mentally retarded and provide a sales tax exemption for the production and sale of printed materials.

Cool Weather For Midwest

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A dome of cool air covered most of the nation's midsection early today, sending temperatures in the northern Midwest and Great Lakes region to near the freezing mark.

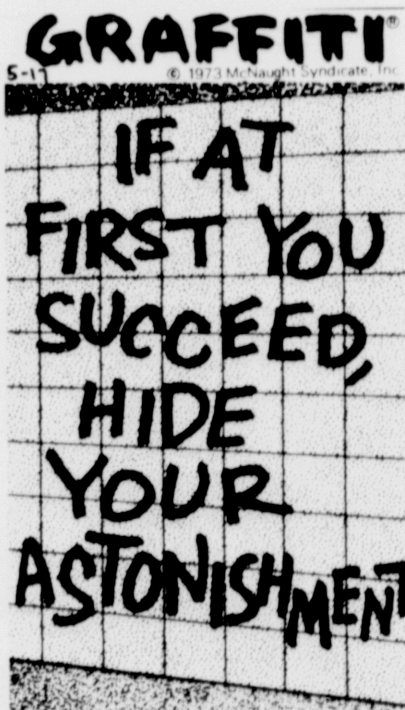

A record low of 37 degrees was set at Chicago early today.

A cold front moved eastward toward the Appalachians accompanied by a band of showers and isolated thunderstorms from northern Mississippi to New York state.

Temperatures were in the cool 50s and 60s in the southeastern states. Tampa, Fla., registered a record low of 55 degrees Wednesday night.

Fog covered parts of the California and Oregon coasts, a few snow flurries dotted the air in northern Michigan.

Elsewhere, fair skies prevailed. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 30 at Lansing, Mich., to 84 at Uma, Ariz.

Senate Panel Opens Watergate Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fact-finding tribunal of seven senators today opened historic hearings into the Watergate scandals of President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Convening in the Senate Caucus Room before a live television audience of millions, they pledged to follow the facts wherever they may lead.

"This is not in any way a partisan undertaking, but, rather it is a bipartisan search for the unvarnished truth," said Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., vice chairman and ranking Republican on the panel whose formal name states its mission: The Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities.

The committee, Baker said, cannot pass judgment or send anyone to jail but it can "develop the facts in full view of the American people ... the final judge of Watergate."

Baker portrayed the men and policies that led to the complex web of events now known collectively as Watergate as political amateurs and said he has found no evidence either the Republican or Democratic national committees played any role in whatever may have gone wrong in 1972.

"We will inquire into every fact and follow every lead unrestrained by any fear of where that lead may ultimately take us," Baker said.

He said the very fact that the American government is now engaged "in the public process of cleaning our house before the eyes of the world" marks the resilience and enduring nature of American institutions.

Even as testimony began in the room where other senators a half-century ago sought the facts of the Teapot Dome scandal, the Watergate story was spreading still.

The Washington Post, which has won a Pulitzer prize for Watergate coverage, today reported the break-in and bugging of Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate was but one incident in a huge White House undercover operation beginning in 1969 and involving still-unreported cases of political burglary, wiretapping, spying and sabotage.

The Post said the mental-health records of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., were in the possession of White House adviser John D. Ehrlichman for several weeks before the story leaked to the press that the Democratic vice-presidential candidate had undergone electric-shock treatment for nervous exhaustion. Eagleton then quit the ticket.

Personnel of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Secret Service, the Justice Department and the White House were used in a wide variety of clandestine operations, the Post said, quoting "highly placed sources in the executive branch."

The first phase of the hearings will be limited to the Watergate bugging itself, although developing testimony may take senators into two other major areas of concern: political sabotage and illegal campaign contributions.

The resolution creating the investigating committee limits the probe to conduct of the 1972 presidential campaign—Republican, Democratic and otherwise.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., the committee's chairman, is quick to point out that the panel is charged to "prove or disprove" any and all accusations.

As Senate workmen prepared the Caucus Room for the beginning of the long set of Watergate hearings, another high administration official resigned, becoming at least the 11th to quit after being touched by various aspects of the case.

G. Bradford Cook, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, left the government Wednesday in the aftermath of the indictments of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans and two others charged with alleged campaign financing violations.

The White House pointed a finger of blame, meanwhile, at a man who did not quit but was fired: John W. Dean III, formerly the President's official lawyer.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler insisted that Dean conducted an in-house Watergate investigation for the President. But Ziegler called it inadequate.

Dean, who has been granted immunity for anything he may say at the Senate hearings, has said he never wrote a report on such an investigation for the White House. He told interviewers he was "flabbergasted" when the President told a news conference Aug. 29 a "Dean report" had cleared all sides then on the White House staff.

Dean vowed he will not be made a scapegoat in the Watergate case.

But lawyers representing him told a federal judge they believe there is at least a chance he may be indicted.

They said Dean has been unable to learn from federal prosecutors if he is suspected of any crime.

Similar statements came from lawyers representing Ehrlichman and former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman as all three men asked to be excused for the present from making depositions in a Watergate-connected civil suit. Haldeman and Ehrlichman resigned as a result of Watergate.

Meanwhile, the deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency said he told Dean nearly 11 months ago that attempts to falsely implicate the CIA in the Watergate case could turn "a painful wound into a mortal one," a minor flap "into a multi-megaton explosion."

In an affidavit supplied to senators but not publicly released, Army Lt. Gen. Vernon A. Walters said that 10 days after the June 17, 1972, arrests inside Democratic party headquarters at the Watergate Dean told him "some witnesses were getting scared and were 'wobbling.'"

"I felt that someone had bungled badly and that the responsible parties should be fired," Walters said in the affidavit.

"I said that no matter how scared they got, they could not involve the CIA because it was not involved in the bugging of the Watergate."

The leadoff witness at today's hearing was to be Robert C. Odle, office manager of the reelection committee. Following him on the schedule were Bruce Kehrli, an aide to Haldeman, and District of Columbia police Sgt. Paul Leeper, who helped arrest the Watergate burglars.

Other developments spanned the range of Watergate investigations and activities.

—Warren M. Christopher, former deputy attorney general, reportedly dropped out of contention for the position of special prosecutor in the government's Watergate investigation. His departure left Atty. Gen.-designate Elliot L. Richardson with just two names left from an original field of four finalists.

Remaining are Justice William H. Erickson of the Colorado Supreme Court and David W. Peck, a retired New York state appellate judge.

—The White House acknowledged Nixon personally authorized wiretaps on the telephones of 13 government officials and four newsmen between May 1969 and February 1972 as a means of tracing leaks of classified information to the press.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved downwards today in moderate trading as already cautious investors kept close tabs on the televised Senate Watergate hearings.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.83 points at 913.31. Declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange led advances 667 to 398.

"There is a problem confronting the market, psychologically at least, and that's Watergate," said Martin I. Goodfriend of Bruns, Nordeman & Co. "The headlines from these hearings are likely to be negative."

As the market opened today the government announced it had revised upward the first-quarter gross national product figures to show that the inflation rate was the highest since 1951. The Commerce Department announced first-quarter corporate profits rose by 25.9 per cent from a year earlier, and the federal budget deficit showed a sharp reduction in the first quarter.

SEC Chief 11th Administration Official To Resign Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman G. Bradford Cook of the Securities and Exchange Commission has become the 11th Nixon administration official to quit in the wake of election irregularities.

Cook announced his resignation Wednesday, 15 minutes before he was due to testify secretly before a House panel, amid speculation that he would be asked to discuss the Robert L. Vesco case.

The House Commerce Committee's investigation subcommittee postponed Cook's appearance. Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., told newsmen the session was tentatively rescheduled for Monday.

Staggers, chairman of the full committee and the investigating panel looking into SEC actions, would not say whether Cook's planned appearance was tied to the case involving the secret $200,000 contribution by New Jersey financier Vesco to the President's re-election campaign.

Cook was the latest official of the Nixon administration to leave his job because of burgeoning disclosures about Watergate and other campaign deeds. Ten others before him, including Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and White House aides John Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman, have resigned.

Staggers said he talked by phone to Cook, who did not appear at the subcommittee room where he was to have testified.

Cook, who denied wrongdoing, said in a letter to Nixon: "I deeply regret having to tender my resignation as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, but in light of unfortunate circumstances now prevailing, I believe it is best to do so." Cook said he found himself facing a "web of circumstances" and felt the effectiveness of the agency might be impaired.

A Senate subcommittee spent about five hours with Cook in a closed meeting last Monday, following reports that under political pressure the SEC, in a lawsuit alleging Vesco and 41 others conspired to loot $224 million from a foreign-based mutual fund, made no mention of the Vesco donation to the Nixon campaign.

Diplomats See Scandal As Pretext

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Many experienced diplomats at the United Nations predict the U.S. Congress will trim presidential power as a result of the Watergate scandal. They believe this will reduce American influence in the world.

"Watergate is, of course, a pretext for a major campaign to curb the powers of the President," one West European said. "The people who voted for President Nixon knew at the time he was no angel, so they are not really surprised at the affair, which is just a drop in the bucket compared to the importance of the Middle East question."

He predicted a net result of the scandal would be further U.S. withdrawal from world affairs and eventual loss of both markets and influence abroad to Japan, China and European countries.

An Arab ambassador said the Watergate affair was severely damaging U.S. prestige and influence in the world. "It is a diversion from real problems such as the ailing economy and balance of payments deficits," he said.

But a Communist diplomat said while the power of the U.S. presidency will be reduced, this would not affect Nixon's major dealings with the Soviet Union and China. Those negotiations, he said, "are dictated by reality."

Senate Delays

Antiwar Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — With new Indochina negotiations opening in Paris, Senate Democratic leaders have given up hope for an early vote to cut off funds for continued bombing in Cambodia.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott declined Wednesday to waive rules that would prevent a supplemental appropriation bill from being called up in the Senate until the middle of next week.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who sought the waiver, said there probably would be discussion that would delay a vote until the Senate returns from a Memorial Day recess May 29.

The supplemental money bill to carry scores of federal agencies through the remainder of the fiscal year includes an amendment adopted by the Senate Appropriations Committee to cut off all present and previously appropriated funds for U.S. hostilities in Cambodia or Laos.

Explaining delaying tactics, Scott said the Paris negotiations between presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnam's chief negotiator, Le Duc Tho, should proceed without a possibly damaging action by the Senate. Kissinger and Tho are seeking to improve observance of the Jan. 27 cease-fire.

The administration justifies the bombing in support of Cambodian government troops as an effort to force withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from Cambodia in compliance with the peace pact.

A Page Of Opinion

Good New Days

It is a soothing part of human nature to remember the better things about yesterday and dim the memory of those which were not quite so pleasant. The tranquilizing effect of time could not be dispensed with, but it can operate to distort perspectives.

Perhaps that is why people tend to recall a period of "good old days" when life was less hectic and things and participants both seemed to perform better than they do today. That is the comparison frequently made, at any rate, and it is not necessarily so.

Shoddy merchandise and mediocre service can be found in the American marketplace. No question about that. And the buyer who is the unhappy owner of a malfunctioning appliance, a home built with inferior materials and shoddy workmanship, or a vehicle which spends entirely too much time in the repair shop, has a right to complain.

But before he makes comparisons of today's quality with the way it used to be, perhaps he ought to remember the textiles which shrank, the tires which were commonly susceptible to blow-outs and low mileage, plastics which were brittle and changed shape and foods which had to be prepared in the home.

Times have changed considerably, and the more that is recalled as it really was from an earlier age, the better the good old days of today shine through.

Bandaged Knee

By JEFFREY HART

Well, no doubt everyone is glad that the Wounded Knee fiasco is over with only two corpses, one paralyzed man, numerous injuries, and much property loss, but many have found completely inexplicable the Nixon Administration's policy of being soft on violent Indian militants. Nor are they reassured by the recent elevation to the post of President's counsel of Leonard Garment, who has replaced, at least temporarily, the hapless John Dean.

Last fall, it will be recalled, Garment inspired the policy of buying off with $66,000 the militants and thugs who occupied—and wrecked—the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington; and the Garment approach also informs the handling of Wounded Knee, in which the militant bully-boys kicked out the legitimate Indian home-owners and occupied the town for almost four months.

Whoever finds this kind of thing edifying, it certainly does not seem to be the actual residents of the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota, the site of Wounded Knee.

The April 13 issue of the Harvard Law Record contains an illuminating interview with a first-year Indian law student at Harvard, David Harrison, who, along with two other Harvard students, undertook a trip to the Pine Ridge Reservation to provide legal advice to the tribal unit there. In Harrison's view, the takeover by the militants caused "tremendous disruption" on the reservation, threatened tribal sovereignty, and "undermined" the tribal structure of the Oglala Sioux.

The leaders of the takeover, he said, "parade around in their beads and feathers, saying 'We're the real Indians in the country.' But in calling for civil rights investigations and audits they are saying 'We want white man's law on the reservation.' I don't think they have thought this through. . . They have precious little support in the Indian community. Most of their support has come from outside the reservation, from such white liberal groups as the National Council of Churches." In Harrison's view, the militants "launched a faddish thing. They used the right words: 'oppression,' 'racism,' and 'poverty.' "

Harrison explains that the takeover was precipitated by a dissident faction within the Oglala Sioux tribe which, failing (by a 14-0 vote) to impeach tribal chief Richard Wilson, chose to dramatize its case by occupying Wounded Knee. At this point the leaders of the militant American Indian Movement joined the dispute. "Russell Means," noted Harrison, "is the only leader who is an Oglala Sioux and he never lived on the Pine Ridge Reservation. It wouldn't be so bad if any of them had ever done anything constructive for their own tribes."

To be sure, the occupying militants provided plenty of thrills for the liberals at the National Council of Churches, gave Marlon Brando an opportunity to let his considerable ego hand out all over the place, and afforded the subject of miles of video tape. This, indeed, may suggest the actual constituency served by the militants.

Where the residents of the reservation are concerned, however, the balance sheet looks a little different. Sixty-five Indian families, Harrison noted, were thrown out of their homes; schools were disrupted; the entire episode cost the Oglala tribe some quarter of a million dollars in damages, interrupted projects, and other expenses. "No one wanted the renegades shot," observes Harrison, "but they were disturbed that the government had turned its back on the problems that the takeover had caused the Reservation." For a while, he said, the government even offered to provide food to the occupants of Wounded Knee, "but they made no similar offer to the 65 families who had been evicted. They had to depend on the Red Cross. . . With these kinds of disruptions and with people claiming that tribal government is corrupt, tribal sovereignty itself is threatened."

There you have it. The soft-on-militants policy of the Nixon Administration is, in actuality, anti-Indian—just as the soft-on-campus-militants policy of the liberal college administrators of the 1960s was really anti-student. Len Garment is a good lawyer, a talented musician and a nice guy. But where the handling of militants is concerned, forget it.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

From the time our boy was an infant he would hold his breath until he was absolutely blue. For a long time we thought this was a temper tantrum. He is now 4 years old. How long can we expect this to continue?

Mr. and Mrs. J.H.W., Kan.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. W.:

There is no doubt that this terrifying habit, sometimes accompanied by fainting, can be attributed to a child whose temper is triggered by frustration, deprivation or punishment.

It may be entirely psychological in origin, but after this long period of time your son should have a complete medical and neurological examination to rule out conditions that resemble temper tantrums.

I do not mean to induce in you any undue anxiety when I suggest that some cases of so-called "breath-holding temper tantrums" are finally found to be caused by a mild unsuspected form of epilepsy.

This, when discovered, can be kept in complete control. There are other conditions such as severe anemia, chemical imbalance, and hormone disturbances which may be responsible for that which is considered a temper tantrum.

I feel so foolish when I tell a doctor I cannot swallow a pill. Does anyone have a suggestion for a 53-year-old baby?

Mr. S.L., Tex.

Dear Mr. L.:
All of us in the practice of medicine have watched patients go through the most elaborate gyrations in order to swallow a pill the size of a small pea.

I never could reconcile this with the fact that these same people can swallow a chunk of steak almost one inch square. Yet I do know that it occurs.

Very recently, I came across a suggestion by Dr. William B. Robey, of Phoenix, Ariz., that may be helpful to you.

Dr. Robey says, "I tell my patient to try this old but forgotten way to swallow a pill. I suggest that he take a sip of water and hold it in his mouth. Then he is to tilt his head back as though to gargle the water, and then drop the pill on top of the water. When the water is swallowed the pill easily slides down."

If this and other suggestions don't work, you will find that almost all medications can be obtained in liquid form.

Is it possible to insert a tube into the stomach to examine it? My uncle says he must have this done to see if he has a hidden stomach ulcer.

Miss J.D., Ore.

Dear Miss D.:

A special type of fibro-optic tube can be inserted into the mouth, passed through the esophagus, and into the stomach and the small intestine. Through this tube it is possible to study minute areas and even take photographs of tissue hidden in recessed areas. Tissue can also be removed for microscopic study.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A tragedy of the securities industry, where red ink is spreading and layoffs are rising, is that it probably could be in the midst of a golden age if it had only made the proper moves.

But apparently it didn't, and the prices of stocks are depressed and corporations are concerned about future financing and individual investors are conserving their money in bonds and banks and real estate.

Where it went wrong is now the subject of in-depth studies, but it seems fair to state that:

—Individual investors lost their confidence not so much in stocks as in those who sold them the stocks, and they may not re-enter the market until the securities industry clears up its own affairs.

—In-fighting continues among the various institutions that are to be part of the new central market place. And now the industry has reversed itself and seeks higher, not lower, commissions.

—They feel that investments in no-risk or small-risk securities, such as government and corporate bonds, which now pay relatively high rates, are preferable to the uncertainties of a volatile stock market.

And so, at the very time that more Americans than ever before have money to invest, and at the very time that corporate profits are at their highest in several years, stock prices are badly depressed.

One reason is the absence of the individual investor, bothered by memories of past scandals and inadequacies, by "unfair" competition from huge institutions, by fear of broker stability, by commission uncertainties, by regulatory problems . . .

You can draw up your own list, and probably you would have to include what the pollsters claim and what the pros at first denied, that there is pervasive uncertainty in the country that demoralizes investors.

As a result of some or all of these reasons, much of the recent activity in the market has been by institutions, such as mutual and pension funds, which really have little choice but to invest.

And add to the active institutions the corporations themselves, the companies whose shares are traded. Scores of them have been grabbing up their own shares at what they must feel are bargain prices, and they probably are.

Standard & Poor's Corp. reports that of the 1,495 companies whose stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, 190 reported in April alone that they had increased holdings of their own shares in the first quarter.

Another group also has been active, as usual, and that is the insiders, or the officers and directors of corporations. Some well known companies are more than 50 per cent owned by their own executives and directors.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The chairman of Consolidated Natural Gas Co. says natural gas prices "must increase by well over 50 per cent over the next six years" in order to alleviate a supply shortage currently facing the nation.

Botulism Outbreak Controlled From Contaminated Peppers

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — An outbreak of botulism poisoning which hospitalized eight persons last week is now under control, according to Dr. N.H. Dyer, director of the West Virginia Department of Health.

"It may be some time before we know the extent of the health damage," Dyer said. "But we feel so far we have been quite fortunate in combating this."

The Food and Drug Administration Wednesday announced that a recall of the peppers has been extended to Maryland, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio.

FDA officials traced the poisoning to processed peppers distributed by Felix and Sons Wholesale Inc. of Fairmont, W.Va., and urged consumers in the Pittsburgh area and West Virginia to return those carrying the labels "Nancy's" and "San Marco Mild Hot Peppers" to the stores where they were purchased.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

I'm sure you are all familiar with the old fable about the city mouse and the country mouse. The lesson it teaches is simple: life in the city is very different from life in the country, and once you become accustomed to one, it is difficult to adjust to the other. You and your family are fortunate to be living in Circleville; it is certainly a wonderful place to live. If you have always lived here, however, you probably have no idea what life in a big city such as New York is like. There is a big difference. The city has more traffic, more dirt, more people, more services, more events, and more excitement. One of the easiest ways to expose a child to big-city life is through books.

Circleville Garden Club

Tours Garden, Views Slides

Circleville Garden Club met Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Watt, 540 N. Court St., to view the Watt Garden.

The garden is mostly a perennial and shrubbery planting. The entire garden is enclosed for privacy, to deaden the noise, for bloom and types of material that provide feed for birds.

There are blooms the year around, starting in December and January with Lenten roses, jasmine, heather, aconits, muscari, botonical tulips and on through the summer and fall months. There are not many varieties of perennials but annuals are added to increase color with flowers. The individual flowers and beds are bordered with variegated leafed iris, daylilies, yucca, physostegia, convallaria, grasses, sedium hosta, euonymus, porcelain vine, Korean bayberry, dogwood, weigela and many others.

For the red to bronze coloring is found in nandiana, red leaf canna, cyclamen, tempervisam, purple filbert, rhus, Russian olive and red twig-dogwood. Hybrid tea roses, floribunda, grandiflora and climbing rambler miniature roses all bloom the entire summer and until late fall.

One wooded area is planted in many wild flowers. All patio planters with decorative accents are painted in Williamsburg green which blends with all plantings.

Mrs. Watt specializes in tree lilacs, peonies and roses; herbs, hosta and ferns with a midget vegetable garden bordered in everbearing strawberries with additional space arranged for an asparagus bed.

John Kelchner, president, opened the business meeting with a moment of silence in respect to Mrs. E. E. Wolf, an honorary life member of the club, who died recently.

Schedules of the Monrovia Flower Show on June 24th at Five Points, were distributed. The regional meeting to be May 24th at the Columbus Zoo was

Ashville Club

Has Program By Women's Panel

The Ashville Women's Civic Club met recently in the First English Lutheran Church. Mrs. Helen Hedges introduced The Panel of American Women. The panel consisted of one Catholic, one Jew, one Black protestant and one white majority. All spoke of prejudices they had encountered in their lifetime. All suggested that one put away all pretense and meet one another face to face without prejudice.

The Jewish representative was most happy to discuss the 25th Anniversary of the State of Israel.

The white majority representative was a protestant, married to a Jew, and now both enjoy the Unitarian religion.

The Black protestant was most interesting and encountered some of the same questions she has met on other panels.

Hostesses: Mrs. James Irwin, Miss Martha Brinker, Mrs. Charles White and Mrs. Wayne Pontious served refreshments preceding the meeting.

The club decided to send flowers for the graduation ceremonies at Teays Valley High School. Standing rules were distributed for reading and to be voted upon at the June meeting.

Nelle Oesterle announced there were representatives for the Ohio Federation Scholarships.

The June dinner meeting will be held at the Pickaway Arms in Circleville on the first Thursday in June. There will be an installation of officers for 1973-74. Mrs. Charles White, chairman of the hospitality committee will be in charge of arrangements.

DOD Survey Shows Women Prefer Navy

A Department of Defense task force study on the growing role of women in the military shows that young civilian women rank the Navy first among the services.

Of 720 single working girls, high school seniors and junior college students surveyed, about 37 per cent indicated that if they were to select a military service, the Navy would be their first choice. One out of eight women interviewed was a potential enlistee.

The study was based, in part, on the Defense Department's plans to increase greatly the number of women, both officer and enlisted, in the uniform by mid-1958. By that time, it's anticipated that the Navy will double the present number of women line officers on duty and increase, by about 50 per cent, current numbers of enlisted women.

In addition, while approximately 84 per cent of enlisted Navy women have been assigned administrative and medical jobs in the past, projections are that less than half of the women entering the Navy from mid-1973 to mid-1974 will be trained for assignments in those fields.

PETTIT'S

Former Board Members Of Circleville Home To Be Honored Saturday

Former members of the board of the Circleville Home will be honored at a luncheon Saturday hosted by trustees of the Brown Memorial Home, Inc.

This dinner formally marks the change which has occurred over the past two months when the Home board dissolved and merged with the Brown corporate board.

The late managing board of the Home was headed by Mrs. Eugene Barthelmas, president. She and other members of that board have joined in a Twig unit to help support the nursing home's continued operation and have been invited by the Brown board to serve on various committees which are being set up.

When the representatives of the Community United Methodist, Trinity Lutheran, Good Shepherd United Methodist and Presbyterian Churches first organized in 1970, they were faced with the responsibility of determining the feasibility of such an organization operating a geriatric facility in the county, and the best way to do it, in accordance with the terms of the will of Mrs. Paul Brown.

The four Circleville churches were beneficiaries of the estates of Paul and Alice Brown, which are estimated to have a value around $400,000. The couple set up an outline for management and operation of the home, to be named the Brown Memorial Home.

A nine-member board of governors was established to manage the nursing home operation. This includes two representatives from each of the churches involved and a ninth member selected from the officers or directors of a Circleville bank.

The present board includes: President Tom Bennett and Vice President Karl O. Drum, of the Community United Methodist Church; Clarence Radcliffe and Treasurer Kenneth Fosnaugh, representing the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church; George Mallet and John Fissell, of the Trinity Lutheran Church; Secretary Diane Berger and T. D. Harman of the First Presbyterian Church. Earl Palm was selected by the eight board members from the banking institutions.

Unique in the past as the Circleville Home, because it had maintained operation through income derived from room rates and donations, the nursing home's operation remains special in its state for its means of operation.

As the Brown Memorial Home, money comes from the Brown estate to the churches who in turn pass it on to the Brown corporate board. Churches act as the nominating committee, but their influence ends there. The directors are fully in charge of the home. The geriatric care center is operated as a non-profit organization, but it is still required to have its residents pay for housing. Under the new operation, it will be required to accept indigent patients, but residency there will not be free for anyone of the community who desires to enter.

Three ways were available for the board to fulfill the terms of the wills. They could establish a new home for the county, arrange to guild a wing for geriatric care at Berger Hospital or consider takeover of the already-established Circleville Home. The latter choice was acted upon.

Board members plan immediate update and improvement of current facilities, but the future is still quite a bit distant for the board to be making plans for new construction. Its members are getting acquainted with the processes of managing a 32-bed nursing home with the former board's assistance. The women's knowledge of its operation is invaluable to the new board.

As a Twig unit and as members of Brown Home committees, Mrs. Barthelmas, Mrs. Michael Harrison, Mrs. Donald Hill, Mrs. C. P. Phlegger, Mrs. W. P. Yamarick, Mrs. Ned Harden, Mrs. Karl Seyfarth, Mrs.

Copter Crash Fatal To 7

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — Seven soldiers were killed early today when an Army helicopter crashed during a flight to evaluate a new night vision device, a base spokesman said.

The wreckage of the helicopter was found at 8:20 this morning, nearly eight hours after the craft was due to return to the base.

A search for the chopper was launched when the UH-1H helicopter failed to return to the post's Godman Army Air Field at 12:35 a.m. as scheduled.

The wreckage was found about two miles north of Muldraugh, Ky., nearly four miles north of the base airfield, the base spokesman said.

Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Ohio Fugitive Escapes Jail

NEW CUMBERLAND, W.Va. (AP) — An Ohio man being held on several charges escaped from the Hancock County jail early this morning by crawling through ductwork to the outside, a sheriff's office spokesman said.

The missing prisoner was identified as William Lee Landy, 35, of East Liverpool, Ohio.

The spokesman said the escape was under investigation.

Governor Rips Pollution Fund Cuts

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Gov. John Gilligan has criticized the federal Environmental Protection Agency's handling of water pollution control financing in Ohio and other Great Lakes states.

Speaking at a meeting of the Great Lakes Basin Commission here Tuesday, Gilligan said drastic cutbacks in federal funds for construction of municipal sewage facilities resulted in only 63 of Ohio's 126 applications for municipal plants being covered by the allocated funds.

"If the funds approved by Congress had been fully allocated by the federal government, Ohio could have funded not only all 126 proposed programs, but could have assisted as well in the financing of planning for additional projects," he said.

The Nixon administration had cut by more than half the funds provided by federal Water Pollution Control Act amendments passed by Congress in October, 1972. A federal court later ordered the government to release the full amount of funding.

"We are hopeful the recent court decision will be upheld by the higher courts, and the federal government will act swiftly to release the funds, Gilligan said.

Gilligan also called for "meaningful joint participation between the federal and state government" in a study of the Maumee River Basin to be undertaken by the commission.

He said Ohio views the study "with great importance because the Maumee River basin represents a variety of water pollution problems.

"We encourage impute on those environmental problems from local governments, planning agencies and citizen groups," he added.

Gilligan expressed a hope that the federal government "takes the necessary steps to fund organizations to participate in this study.

"All of us have a stock in Maumee Bay and we should plan a joint role in the cleanup and restoration of the bay area," he said.

In a report on Ohio's efforts to clean up Lake Erie, Gilligan said that is the number one water pollution priority of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

"We have established a Lake Erie strike force which has as its goal the cleanup of the Lake Erie shoreline and the reopening of beaches for swimming and recreation," Gilligan said.

"In northwest Ohio, our per capita spending on waste water treatment has been twice that of the rest of the state."

War Backers Turn Against Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Longtime Senate supporters of President Nixon's Indochina war policy have turned against him on the continued U.S. bombing of Cambodia.

Eleven Republicans joined 13 Democrats in a 24-0 vote in the Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday to shut off all funds for any further U.S. combat activity in Cambodia and Laos.

The administration managed a slight victory, however, by persuading Republicans to move to delay a full Senate vote on the bombing until after Paris negotiations between Henry Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho. Their meeting to discuss peace-agreement violations begins Thursday.

Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate

Republican Conference, saw the key vote as "a warning to the administration that Congress is not in a frame of mind to permit hostilities to continue and get us drawn back into war." Cotton told newsmen that for four years under President Lyndon B. Johnson and four more under President Nixon he had consistently voted to back up the president and U.S. fighting men in Vietnam.

"Now, I consider it a new ball game," he said. "We have brought all our men home. I hope we have gotten all our prisoners back. As far as I am concerned, I want to get the hell out of there as soon as possible and I don't want to fool around until they capture more prisoners."

Cotton voted for a supplemental appropriations bill amendment that would bar use of any appropriated funds to support any combat activity by U.S. forces in, over, or from off the shores of Cambodia or in or over Laos. The amendment was proposed to the committee by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo.

The House voted last week to forbid use of any money in the supplemental appropriation bill for U.S. hostilities in Cambodia, but Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson said other funds could be found to continue the bombing.

another consistent administration supporter, said he voted for the amendment because "the bombing is more or less useless."

Bobby Seale

Loses Election

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Black Panther cofounder Bobby Seale lost his bid to become mayor of California's fifth largest city. But he pledges, "We haven't stopped yet."

Businessman John Reading captured his third term as mayor by an almost 2-1 margin Tuesday and lauded the Panthers' movement into the political arena.

"I would hope they will continue to work in the democratic process," Reading said after his victory was assured. "I'm much more pleased with this than with the militant and confrontational type of approach the Panthers were doing four to five years ago."

Terminal Destruction Draws Near

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The vice president of the Southern Railway System announced Wednesday night that work will begin today sealing off the Union Terminal rotunda, despite last-minute moves by Cincinnati City Council to save the structure.

James Headley said Southern has permits to go ahead with plans to tear down the terminal's concourse for enlargement of piggyback freight operations.

The permits "said we can brick up the rotunda and that's what we are going to start doing Thursday," Headley said.

Headley's comments came after the council moved to designate the terminal as a historic landmark. William Ahlert, City Building Commissioner, suspended a permit for Southern to begin demolition in the concourse today.

Fourteen murals, mosaics that portray Cincinnati's industrial history, have been the focal point of a drive by citizens who want them saved.

Listing the terminal a historic landmark could hold up building permits indefinitely. But Headley maintains he has the necessary approval to begin demolition of part of the structure.

"I am seriously considering going down to the city hall Thursday with an application to tear down the whole concourse and see what happens," Headley said.

Drink Squabble Actually Laughable

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 18-year-old youths — clothed with all adult privileges minus one in a bill awaiting legislative action—must be laughing in their 3.2 beer these days.

Under a bill passed by the Ohio Senate, the youths would be adults, except they couldn't legally drink hard liquor or high-powered beer.

The catch is, they know they can get just as drunk on the beer they can drink as the so-called high-powered beer they can't.

"It depends on a person's size and system," said William Dorsey, chief of the beer and wines division of the Ohio Department of Liquor control.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren
When Kids Light Up Grass

DEAR ABBY: How right you are! No one should drop in on their married children unannounced. They might be smoking grass there!

I learned the hard way. If someone stole my purse, I'd report it to the police. But when I'm present when they're smoking marijuana in their own homes, I just keep my mouth shut, come home, and air out my clothes and hope I never have to smell it again.

I know what I am going to put in their Christmas stockings next year. A hacksaw for her, and a file for him.

I've invited my daughter, her husband, and several of their friends over for dinner next week, and if those kids light up in my home I'll call the sheriff. (I wonder if I should warn them in advance? Or do you suppose after four years of college they are sufficiently educated to know that one doesn't break the law in the home of a host?)

I never thought I'd send a letter I couldn't sign, but here's one. Aren't we a bunch of lovely law abiding Christian parents? Thanks for being a good ear. I had to tell someone or explode.

FRUSTRATED MOTHER

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Why the frustration? Just tell your kids you don't want them lighting up in your home, and if you are present when they light up elsewhere, absent yourself.

DEAR ABBY: Since you frequently give waitresses space in your column to air their pet peeves I hope you'll give equal time to a customer who has one:

Gilligan Hits Nixon Action, Watergate

URBANA, Ohio (AP)—Current scandals in the Nixon administration have brought a comparison from Gov. John Gilligan with those of President Harding's administration in the 1920s.

Gilligan told approximately 850 people attending the Champaign County Democratic Governor's banquet here Tuesday night that "the Teapot Dome scandal of the Warren G. Harding administration was only after our money but that Nixon has tried to steal our rights and personal freedom."

Where do people get the nerve to go into a busy restaurant and READ at the table? I can understand someone giving the newspaper a quick going over to get the news, but I've seen people leisurely reading books and magazines at the table while others are waiting to sit down and eat.

I hope you'll print this for some of those selfish people who need to be jarred into more considerate behavior.

The scandal under Harding, who was a Marion, Ohio, native dealt with illegal private oil leases on government land in the West.

Gilligan, a Democrat, also condemned the federal government's treatment of the Daniel Ellsberg Pentagon Papers trial as a "prime example of the government trying to deprive an individual of fair trial and due process."

"Which of us is safe when even the Justice Department can be used to trample our rights?" Gilligan asked.

Gilligan also said the present national administration's attitude toward the truth was reflected in the last Ohio Republican administration led by former Republican Gov. James Rhodes.

CHICAGOAN

DEAR CHICAGOAN: I'll print it. But those who behave in the above-mentioned manner need more than a "jar." They need an earthquake.

DEAR ABBY: My problem has no solution, unless this is printed and the "culprit" just happens to see it and recognizes herself as the singer.

My sister, whom I love dearly, has been a widow for several years, and since she is a very congenial person my husband and I have invited her along on our motor trip vacation. We love music and our automobile is equipped with stereo and our favorite cassettes.

Now comes the problem: My sister, who has no singing voice at all, must accompany every song she hears. She does this in a shrill, off-key voice, four to six beats ahead (or behind) and sometimes she "harmonizes."

My husband and I intend to spend three months touring Mexico and my husband has given me an ultimatum: Tell Sis to keep her mouth shut, or the trip is off.

Any ideas?

LOVING SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Tell Sis that your husband, the music-lover, is looking forward to enjoying the music on the trip, and you'd appreciate her quiet cooperation.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "IN THE STOCK MARKET IN ALBANY": It's not the bulls and the bears you have to watch out for. It's the bum steers. Be sure you're getting your tips from an expert.

"A person can definitely get drunk on 3.2 beer."

The bill granting 18-year-olds full adult privileges and responsibilities passed the Senate last month. The bill now is before the House Judiciary Committee.

The man who wrote the bill, Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, realizes the slight and ironic difference between 3.2 and high-powered beer.

"I would like to have the right to drink included in the bill," said Aronoff, "but it's a matter of political expediency."

"If we want to get anything through this legislature we'll have to give up the right to drink. Once we get it through, perhaps we can offer another bill."

Obvious intent of the present bill was to meet objections of those people who want to keep youth of that age away from intoxicating liquors.

What might be called low-powered beer is known as 3.2 beer. It actually contains on the average 3 per cent of alcohol.

"The average high-powered beer, excluding malt liquor," said Dorsey, "has a 3.4 to 3.6 per cent alcohol content."

To pinpoint what the difference is, consider a quart of both 3.2 beer and of high-powered beer. In a quart of 3.2 beer, an 18-year-old may legally drink a fraction under one ounce of alcohol, mathematically .96 ounce.

In a quart of high-powered beer, the youth will take in 1.08 ounces of alcohol.

A shot of whisky runs about an ounce, depending on the bar, but an ounce of 100 proof whisky would contain only a half-ounce of alcohol. Most whisky is 86 proof, which means an ounce would contain less than a half ounce of alcohol.

Which means, in turn, that a youth could have two bar highballs and take in no more alcohol than in a quart of 3.2 beer.

CLEAN-UP — Beautify Circleville Week is progressing on schedule, according to John Farthing, Community Appearance Chairman of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce. Crews will be north of Hargus Creek today and will cleanup trash in downtown Circleville and along Hargus Creek Friday and Saturday. Atwood Jones' service department even has a fork lift to put heavy items on their truck, which is dumped at the county landfill.

Farm Bureau Members Discuss Tax Resolution

MEET WITH SENATOR — Three local Farm Bureau members met with State Senator Harry Armstrong (right) to discuss revision to the Ohio Constitution. From the left are R. C. Palm, Harford Renick, Harry Kern, and Senator Armstrong.

Three area Farm Bureau members May 16 took time away from farm work to confer with Senator Harry Armstrong in Columbus about a proposed revision to the Ohio constitution.

They, along with some 125 other farmers from across the state, were urging members of the Ohio Senate to pass House Joint Resolution 13 so it could be placed on the ballot for the November election.

The measure is a proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution which would have farm land taxed on the basis of its current value for farming, rather than on the basis of its potential value if used for another purpose.

"Our members' actions are part of a growing concern among Ohioans that unless steps are taken to amend the state constitution farmers could be forced out of business encouraging urban sprawl and jeopardizing chances of maintaining green belts around our cities," says C. W. Swank, executive vice president of Farm Bureau.

R. C. Palm, Harford Renick, and Harry Kern were among those attending from this area.

Franklin County Judge Clifford E. Rader told the group that: "assuming the Supreme Court has correctly interpreted the constitution of this state, the only remedy available to the many threatened directly by this taxation, and to the millions more who will ultimately be adversely affected, would be the adoption of a constitutional amendment."

It was Judge Rader who recently ruled against an appeal by nine Franklin County farmers who had asked for an adjustment in their real estate appraisals which were made on the basis of "market value", rather than on current use."

3-Judge Court To Hear Testimony Of 1957 Slaying

John Teets, charged with first degree murder in the 1956 slaying of his wife, has asked for a three judge trial.

Teets has been an inmate of the Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane since 1957 and was recently released. Tuesday he waived his right to a jury trial and asked for the tribunal.

Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer set June 7 as the trial date.

Judge Ammer ordered a pre-sentence report for Robert Allenman who appeared before the court on a bill of information. He was charged with the burglary of the workshop of Bill Mace near New Holland.

The judge placed Holly Vaughn on probation for three years. She was charged with breaking and entering. Harvey Griffith pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the American Legion after charges of possession of a firearm and malicious destruction were dropped. Griffith was sentenced to Mansfield for a period of one to 15 years. Robert Hill was placed on three years probation on a charge of assault with the intent to rob.

Earl W. Hunt, Jerry Lee Dugger, Gary Thomas Rowland were arraigned Wednesday. Hunt asked the court to appoint council to represent him on a charge of uttering and publishing a forged check. Dugger pleaded not guilty to grand larceny. Thomas pleaded not guilty to grand larceny and breaking and entering during the night.

Budget Restraint Given Applause

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—President Nixon is maintaining budgetary restraint at a time when it is more essential than ever before, economist Wallace H. Peterson told the Cleveland City Club.

"If ever there was a time for budgetary restraint, this is it," said Dr. Peterson, senior economic adviser in the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Total government expenditures rose from about 10 per cent of the gross national product's dollar value in 1929 to about 35 per cent last year, he said.

"The average citizen works almost the first two days of the week for federal, state and local government," he said.

Reserve Board Tightens Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board has moved to cool the nation's economy by tightening the supply of money member banks have available for business loans.

The board Wednesday ordered member banks to raise their reserves from 5 to 8 per cent on the amount of increase in their large outstanding certificates of deposit. The action takes effect June 7.

Banks issue certificates of deposit in exchange for money deposited for specified periods of time. Higher interest is paid on the certificates than on regular savings accounts.

Certificates are a major source of funds that banks acquire and lend to businesses at higher interest rates.

By the increased reserve requirements, the board is forcing member banks to set aside a greater percentage of their new funds.

If a bank had $20 million outstanding in deposit certificates in the week ended May 16 and increased that amount to $25 million, that additional $5 million would be subjected to the 8 per cent reserve requirement.

Under the new directive, the bank would be forced to set aside $400,000 in reserves, rather than the $250,000 under the old regulation. This would withhold $150,000 that, in the absence of the directive, would have been available for lending to businesses.

The board also removed the ceiling on interest rates that banks may pay on certificates of deposits in amounts of $100,000 and over. But the increase will not apply to banks with total outstanding certificates of less than $10 million.

About $1 billion in certificates of deposit is now outstanding, $800 million more than at the start of the year, said the board.

The board, which asked banks to observe the "spirit as well as the letter" of its actions, said business borrowing from commercial banks increased by about $15 billion during the first four months of the year. That amounts to an annual rate of increase of about 15 per cent, compared to last year's 11.5 per cent.

Nude Model Party-Goer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Miki Garcia, a Playboy magazine model, plans to go to a dinner given by President and Mrs. Nixon.

Her escort will be a former prisoner of war whose wife divorced him while he was in prison.

Miss Garcia, who measures 38-22-36, is 5 feet 4 and weighs 108 pounds, will be the date of Capt. Galand C. Kramer of Oklahoma. Kramer and other former POWs released by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong will be honored by the Nixons at the May 24 dinner.

"She certainly is a very intelligent, very pleasurable girl with a wonderful personality," Kramer said Wednesday night after Miss Garcia announced she was going.

The two met at a party in Tulsa. Kramer said he was surprised by the total nudity in Playboy, something that hadn't been done before his capture. "But he liked it," said Miki.

McCord To Have Top Witness Role In Scandal Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — James McCord, the talkative conspirator, planted the seed of disclosure now coming to bloom. He broke the silence that let the Watergate story come tumbling through.

It was an uncharacteristic act for an unusual man, a real-life spy whose world was secrecy and codes and a willingness to do anything for a cause—except take the rap for others.

When McCord steps before the cameras in the opening phase of the Senate's Watergate hearings, he'll be in a spotlight that he helped focus with a clumsily typed letter in March.

Then he stood before a judge prepared to impose a heavy sentence for being caught in the act burgling and bugging Democratic party headquarters.

The letter, at that time already in Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica's hands, changed it all.

"In the interests of justice," McCord wrote, "I will state the following to you at this time."

And then came three terse paragraphs of allegations:

—There was political pressure applied to the defendants in the Watergate trial to plead guilty and remain silent.

—Perjury occurred during the trial.

—Others involved in the Watergate operation were not identified during the trial, when they could have been by those testifying.

Later the same day, March 23, McCord met with investigators for the special Senate Watergate committee. He talked about point three: He'd been told that John N. Mitchell, Jeb S. Magruder and John W. Dean III planned Watergate with G. Gordon Liddy, his codefendant in the trial.

Another time he talked of point one: The Committee for the Re-election of the President promised money; presidential aides promised clemency in return for stony silence.

And to lawyers in civil suits McCord talked of point 2: Jeb Magruder lied, he said.

McCord's testimony was so sensational it leaked out before stenographers had a chance to transcribe it. He talked so much that only two days of depositions totaled 380 pages.

He is certain to be the most sensational of the early witnesses in the Senate's great Caucus Room and in what promises to be the most sensational of the many dramatic hearings that have been held there.

Ohio Republicans Shouldn't Ignore Scandal: McGough

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Republican party leaders have been told to speak out on the Watergate scandal in order to inform voters that the GOP "must not be measured by the actions of a few misguided individuals who in no way represent the party."

Kent McGough, GOP state chairman, and T. Spencer Shore, chairman of the Ohio Republican Finance Committee, sent letters to state party leaders to that effect Wednesday.

The memo said the national preoccupation with Watergate should not "obscure the honesty of the Republican Party in Ohio in raising and spending the funds of the party organization."

Copies of audits by an accounting firm on state GOP campaign funds were sent to the party leaders along with the memo.

The California condor's great black wings, marked underneath with tapering white patches, may stretch to 10 feet and carry it up to 10,000 feet and higher.

PTL. DEAN HARRISON

Ptl. Harrison Joins State Patrol Post

Ptl. Dean Harrison, a Mt. Sterling native, is the newest officer to join the Circleville Post of the Ohio State Patrol.

Ptl. Harrison joined the post May 11 after graduating from 30 weeks extensive training at the Patrol's Academy in Columbus.

Harrison, who lives in Mt. Sterling with his wife Sue (Stoer) and children Troy, 4, and Lori, 2, graduated from The Plains High School in 1967. He attended Ohio State University and worked for the Penn Central Railroad before joining the State Patrol.

He will be assigned to a regular patrol and brings Lt. Wayne Henry's force to 30 officers. The patrol post is assigned to Pickaway, Franklin and Madison Counties.

Salinger Defendant In Lawsuit

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A $40 million suit has been filed here against 34 defendants—including Pierre Salinger, former press secretary for President John F. Kennedy—charging them with setting up corporations to avoid Securities and Exchange Commission regulations.

The suit was filed as a class action in U.S. District Court Wednesday by two Florida residents in behalf of the 3,000 stockholders in USIF Real Estate, which the plaintiffs claim is the largest real estate holder in the country.

Defendants are Salinger and other founders of Gramco Management Limited, several Gramco subsidiaries including USIF, and six banks in Philadelphia, Michigan and Ohio.

The suit claims that when Gramco set up USIF Real Estate in 1966, it also set up several other subsidiaries to carry out the management and insurance of USIF real estate holdings.

The plaintiffs charge that in violation of SEC regulations USIF paid "inflated fees" to the other Gramco subsidiaries, which allegedly made large profits at the expense of USIF stockholders.

The suit also charges that USIF deposits held by several banks were frozen in 1970, preventing USIF stockholders from selling their stock back to the company.

Paulding Resident Killed In Indiana

NEW HAVEN, Ind. (AP) — An Ohio man was killed Wednesday night when his speeding car hit a guard rail and utility pole just west of the Indiana-Ohio border in Allen County.

State police said Charles C. Smalley, 20, Paulding, Ohio, was killed in the crash about 14 miles east of New Haven.

His car had been traveling about 100 miles per hour, police said.

Teays Valley Tops Tigers For AA Sectional Crown

A three-run outburst in the top of the third inning and a fine pitching performance by Jerry Sabine gave Teays Valley a 3-1 victory over Circleville and the South No. 1 AA Sectional championship Wednesday at Edwards Field in Newark.

The Vikings will meet Buckeye Valley 5 p.m. Friday for the District title at Edwards Field in Newark.

Sabine opened on the hill for the Vikings and went all the way to gain the win. The stocky righthander kept the Tigers off balance with his offerings and was especially tough in the clutch. He scattered five hits, struck out five and didn't give up a free pass in the contest.

Perry Hoskins started for the Tigers and was the victim of three unearned runs in his three innings on the mound. He allowed two hits, walked four and struckout one. A couple of fielding misplays by the Tigers hurt his chances for a victory.

Dave Truex hurled three innings in relief for the Tigers, giving up one hit, walked four and struckout three. Greg Hoskins hurled the seventh inning, giving up one hit, no walks and fanning one batter.

Bruce Haines was the big hitter for Teays Valley with three singles and Norm McPherson struck the killing blow with a two-run single in the top of the third.

Both teams had plenty of base runners but couldn't come up with the key blow to break the game open. Circleville left 10 runners stranded on the sacks and the Vikings left nine.

Errors played a big part in the contest as the Tigers misplayed the ball four times and the Vikings three.

John Ankrom was the top Circleville hitter with a pair of singles, Paul England rapped a double and Truex and Mike Speakman each had a one-bagger.

Both teams had scoring opportunities in the first inning but failed to take advantage of them.

After a scoreless second inning the Vikings went to work in the third and put the ball game on ice. Perry Hoskins retired the first two men but Terry Lambert reached on an error. Jim Pabst drew a walk and Haines followed with an infield hit to load the sacks.

Steve Williams walked to force in the lead run and Norm McPherson followed with a smash into leftfield to plate two more markers but Williams was cutdown at third to end the inning.

The Tigers got a run back in the fourth when Rock Davis reached on an error, went to third on England's double and scored on a ground ball by Speakman.

The Tigers had several other scoring chances but some questionable base running and great clutch pitching by Sabine killed their chances and put the game in the Vikings' win column.

LOADS BASES—Bruce Haines, Viking second baseman, beat out an infield hit in the third inning of Wednesday's sectional finals and scored the last TV run when Norm McPherson's grounder bounded into left field. Haines had little trouble with Circleville pitching as he collected three of the Viking's four hits in the game.

The 880-yard relay team of Roy Duffy, Steve Sargent, Mark Fouch and Brad Luckhart finished sixth. Mark Hawks had a leap of 19 feet 6 inches to finish third in the long jump.

The Mile relay team of Dave Hulse, Scott Bower, Mark Hawks and Wes King was fifth with a time of 3:43.3.

SD Opens Season With Solid Card

A solid field of trotters in Friday's $7,000 Inaugural Trot, and the track pacing champion Jay Time in Saturday's $7,000 Free For All Pace, highlight the opening weekend of action at Scioto Downs for the 1973 season.

In Friday's lid-lifting trotting clash, the pre-race favorite role is up for grabs between the veteran Doc McBean, winner of three straight at The Meadows, Quickster from the Dick Williams stable, and King Strom, winner of four out of his six starts this year.

Jay Time, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baas of Columbus, makes his 1973 Scioto debut Saturday night at the scene of his fine performance last year when he cracked the track pacing record in a sizzling 1:57 4-5 in the 3 yr-old pacing division of the Challenge Stakes. Trained and driven by Gene Riegle, the six-time leading Scioto driver, Jay Time won his first start this year, taking the American National Stake at Chicago in 2:00 3-5.

Doc McBean with Charlie Williams up, won in 2:03 1-5 at The Meadows, Quickster won in 2:03 1-5 at Liberty Bell Park, and King Storm with Al Kerns up, has won four at Lebanon Raceway including last Friday's victory in 2:05 1-5. Completing Friday's feature trot is Hassie Blaze with Erv Samples, Flora Pearl with Herb Smith, and Yellow Knife with Dick Farrington up.

Jay Time will have all he can handle in Saturday's Pacing feature. Dick Williams will have Sammy Key who scored in 1:59 1-5 last year before going to Lexington, Kentucky where he paced in a time trial in 1:58.

Dick Buxton will bring in the sensational Racing Knight. Owned by Arthur Meyring of Dayton, Ohio, Racing Knight won in 1:59 at Pompano Park last winter, and two weeks ago won the Sagamore Series at Roosevelt Raceway in 2:01 3-5 to give him two wins and three seconds in six starts this year.

Dick Richardson will be in the sulky behind Proper Time who won over $55,000 last year and won a tilt with the stop watch at Lexington, Kentucky in 1:58 1-5. Ralph Lunsford's Sovereign Warrior won in 1:59 3-5 at Scioto last year, and this season has won two of four starts including a 2:03 4-5 win at Louisville Downs' half mile track.

Jim Riley will start his great Laetare for the first time this year Saturday night. Showing a record of 1:59 1-5 at Scioto last year, Laetare breezed through an eye-popping workout last Saturday morning at Scioto.

Scioto Downs will open for the fifteenth season Friday night, sporting the new Penthouse dining room. The 405 dining capacity in The Penthouse will increase Scioto's dining room facility to a total of 1105.

The outstanding opening weekend of racing is indicative of the fine racing programs arranged for the 1973 season. In addition to the weekly trotting and pacing events, Scioto offers six divisions of the popular Challenge Stakes series, four divisions of the Scarlet and Gray Cup series, the Little Brown Jug Preview on September 6th, and for the first time, the final of the Can-Am series for three and four year pacers on June 28 with the richest ever purse at Scioto of $50,300.

Secretariat Healthy, Set For Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Trainer Lucien Laurin found it difficult to accept what was happening outside Pimlico's Barn E.

There was the usual activity as groom Eddie Sweat attended the colt Secretariat, and newsmen chatted about Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness Stakes. But something was noticeably missing.

Rumors. "It's unbelievable," Laurin said. "We're almost ready to run the Preakness, and nobody has Secretariat broken down yet."

The reference was to the virtually ceaseless string of rumors about Secretariat which preceded his record-breaking victory in the Kentucky Derby on May 5.

Almost daily, there were reports about Secretariat—that his left foreleg was unsound, that he wasn't prepared properly for a top effort in the Derby, and even one rumor just prior to the race that he had been scratched.

Laurin patiently denied every report, and then after the Meadow Stable colt ran the 1 1/4 mile Derby distance in 1:59 2-5, he said: "Well, I guess that takes care of the rumors."

"The rumors had me half nuts at Churchill Downs," Laurin recalled at Pimlico. "It was worth it, though, to win the Derby. Now, I'd like to win the Preakness. I've never won that."

Dodgers Outlast Reds, 8-6

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — There's a new "Say Hey Kid" emerging on a West Coast baseball team. He may not be the next Willie Mays, but the Los Angeles Dodgers thought he was something to see Wednesday night.

Ron Cey, a 25-year-old infielder who had only 10 major league hits in two brief stints with the Dodgers during the last two years, drove in four runs with a 4-for-6 performance as Los Angeles outlasted Cincinnati 8-6 in 11 innings.

Cey and catcher-outfielder Joe Ferguson accounted for half the Dodgers' 16 hits, including 11th-inning home runs which gave Los Angeles its first win in four games this season against the defending National League champs.

It was Cey's way of saying he wants to keep the third base job he recently inherited when hot-hitting Ken McMullen was sidelined with a back ailment.

"I'm not going to give it up," said the former Washington State University star who lifted his batting average from .266 to .288 with Wednesday night's effort.

His fourth hit was a solo homer off Reds' reliever Tom Hall and followed a two-run blast by Ferguson as the Dodgers claimed their 13th win in the last 18 games.

Ferguson, who called his 4-for-5 performance "my best night in the majors," took over the National League lead in runs batted in with 29. He has eight homers and a .328 batting average—two points short of joining two other Dodgers in the league's top 10 hitters.

The Dodgers, with Al Downing firing no-hit ball for the first four innings, took a 3-0 lead in the first inning and added another run in the fourth when catcher Steve Yeager hit a solo homer.

The Reds got back-to-back singles from Dave Concepcion and Richie Scheinblum to open the fifth moments before showers hit, causing the first of two lengthy delays.

An hour and 17 minutes later, Downing returned to the mound and watched the Reds tie it. Phil Gagliano's bases-loaded single scored

Minnesota Still Favored For Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
First place Minnesota is in the driver's seat, but every contender except last place Purdue has a mathematical chance for at least a title tie as the cluttered Big Ten baseball race closes this weekend.

Minnesota 10-4 has only a one game margin over runnerup Michigan 9-5 as the 18 game conference season concludes with four twin bills Friday and five Saturday sets of doubleheaders.

Next closest pursuers are Wisconsin 7-5, and Ohio State 9-7.

But even defending champion Iowa or Illinois, tied for eighth place at 6-8, conceivably could finish tied for first at 10-8 by sweeping four if Minnesota dropped four.

Others with potential finishes of 10-8 or better are Michigan State 7-7; Northwestern 6-6, and Indiana 8-8.

Minnesota's Gophers close at home Friday against last place Purdue 2-12 and Saturday against Illinois.

The Gophers, led by versatile Dave Winfield with a 4-0 pitching record and a .381 batting record doubling in the outfield, need to win three of four games to clinch at least a title tie.

One reason we sell more new Impalas...

they traditionally bring more used!

And traditions die hard. Especially when they are based on solid reasoning. More people buy Chevrolet Impala new because it delivers more value per dollar. This greater value also increases the demand for used Impalas. The increased preference people have for Impalas has helped it have the highest resale value of any car in its field for the past 15 years. This year's Impala should be no exception. Standard equipment includes a hydraulic bumper system that helps cushion minor impacts. Variable-ratio power steering. Power front disc/rear drum brakes. And Turbo Hydra-matic. Traditionally, we've been known to give you more for your present car on trade for a new Impala. Come in and see if you don't agree. Help us keep up a good tradition.

'73 Impala. The great American value. Again.

Concepcion and the Reds added two more on Pete Rose's infield out and Joe Morgan's run-scoring single.

Cey put the Dodgers back in front in the seventh with a single that scored Ferguson, who had blasted his 10th double of the season.

Johnny Bench's two-out single tied it at 5-5.

The win went to Charlie Hough, 1-1, and Tom Hall, 3-2, took the loss.

The two clubs close a three-game series today when Don Sutton, 3-3, faces Clay Carroll, one of last year's most successful relievers who has stumbled this spring.

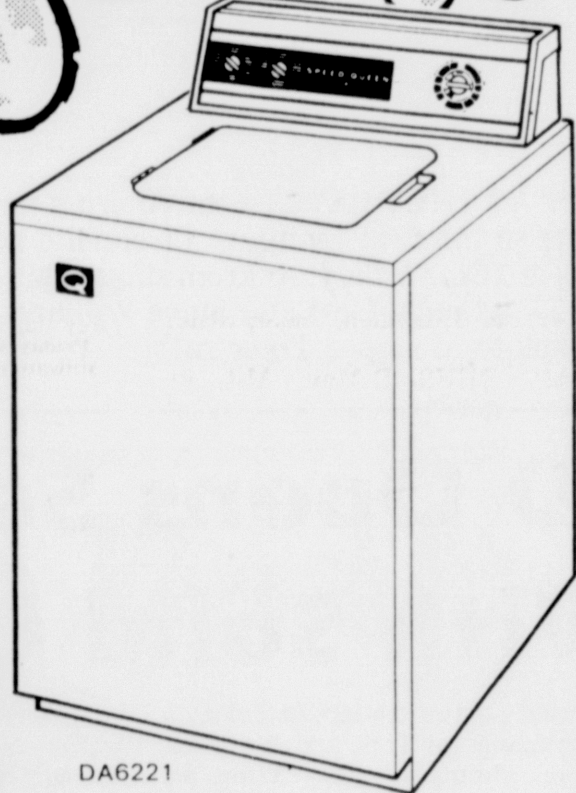

Carroll, 0-3, has a 10.50 earned run average, but Reds' Manager Sparky wants Carroll to have the chance to regain the touch which accounted for a record-setting 37 bullpen saves last year.

Rangers Show Up Kansas City, 2-1

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Show me" say Missourians and the Royals, who wear Kansas City across their chests, are being shown.

Tuesday night, California's Nolan Ryan showed the Royals no mercy as he threw a nohitter at them.

Wednesday night, the Texas Rangers put on a show which featured 10 cent beer, boisterous fan support and a freak single to show up Kansas City 2-1.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit edged Boston 6-5 in 10 innings, the Yankees drubbed Milwaukee 11-4, Minnesota trimmed Chicago 8-6 and California knocked off Oakland 7-2.

"I guess we ought to have 10 cent beer night every night," said Ranger Manager Whitey Herzog. "There sure was a lot of enthusiasm in that crowd.... It helped."

And the Royals' over-enthusiasm on the basepaths didn't hurt the Rangers' cause any. In the sixth, Paul Schall was thrown out after he overran third base. An inning later, Ed Kirkpatrick did a perfect imitation of Schall overrunning third with the same result.

"Kansas City's poor base-running helped us a lot," said Herzog, "but we made several good cutoff plays and Harris' catch was out of this world."

Vic Harris robbed John Mayberry of at least a double with a leaping catch in the sixth inning. "I just leaped as high as I could," said Harris.

In the game between Detroit and Boston, the Red Sox lost a player, a manager and then the game, all in the 10th inning.

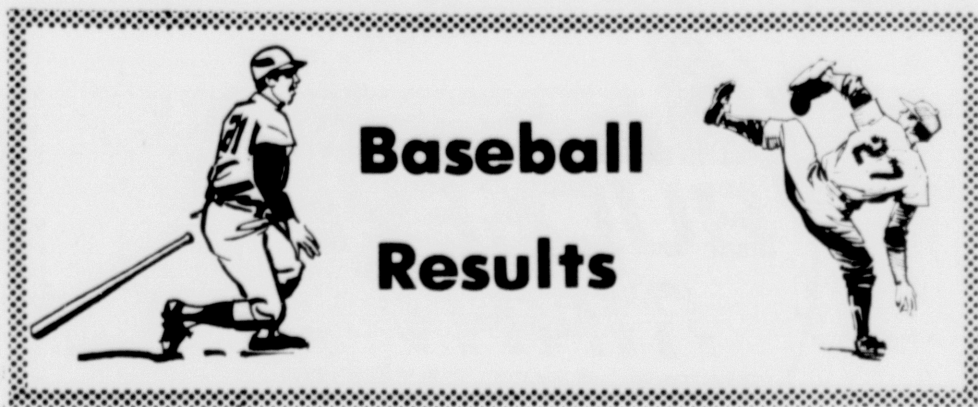

Carl Yastrzemski and Eddie Kasko were both ejected for arguing a called third strike. "Yaz came up to me and pointed his finger at me," said umpire John Flaherty, who in turn pointed his thumb at Yastrzemski. "Then he bumped me and that's when I kicked him out." Kasko got his early release for "abusive language."

Mickey Stanley's sacrifice scored pinch runner John Gamble with the winning run in the 10th. John Hiller picked up the victory for the Tigers, the first for Detroit's bullpen this season.

In Anaheim, two pitchers who together totalled 33 victories last season, but could show only one for this season squared off. Five-time loser Clyde Wright finally won his first game besting John Odom, 1-6, as the California lefthander tossed a tidy six-hitter at Oakland.

The Yankees had 14 hits in their victory over Milwaukee. Thurman Munson contributed a two-run double in a six-run Yankee sixth when they sent 12 men to the plate. An inning later, Munson added a two-run homer.

Since George Mitterwald returned to the Minnesota lineup after injuring his back, the Twins have won three straight. Mitterwald, who has driven in six runs in the three games, batted in three Wednesday night to lead the Twins to victory over the White Sox.

Traveling Medical Vans Give Service To Rural Tennessee

Crash Kills General

HOLLAND PATENT, N.Y. (AP) — Maj. Gen. James L. Price, 51, commander of the 21st Air Division and the 21st North American Air Defense Command region at Hancock Air Force Base near Syracuse since February 1972, died Tuesday when the F106 fighter-interceptor he was flying crashed near here.

Haven. Pleasant Valley. Grimsley. Wilder-Davidson. Crab Orchard. Hanging Limb.

Daily one of these rural villages in seven eastern Tennessee counties gets either medical or dental service from staffs who work out of vans operated by Project Concern, an international medical relief organization.

Once in the villages, the vans are parked near buildings that sometimes serve as waiting rooms. In other cases, the waiting is done in patients' cars.

One doctor examines patients inside the van, as the other uses a side room when available. Medicine is dispensed from a counter in the van.

In a separate village the dental van is also parked and prepared to see some 20 patients. Two chairs allow both the dentist and hygienist to work at the same time.

The dental van is staffed by Dr. Richard Orlowski, a youthful dentist determined to solve tooth problems through a preventive program.

The medical staff is a husband-wife team, James and Mollie Turpin, founders of Project Concern. They've traveled the world and established the project in Vietnam, Hong Kong, Mexico, Ethiopia, Navaholand in New Mexico and have now settled in Appalachia.

The Turpins first arrived in the Upper Cumberland in 1968, and the first crew worked from a borrowed station wagon, holding clinics under trees, beside buildings or anywhere possible.

Electronic Voting

Machine Under Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A simplified electronic voting machine that permits the voter to use an ordinary lead pencil will be examined for possible use in Ohio, according to Secretary of State Ted Brown.

Brown said Wednesday he received an application for approval of the machine, which is a product of Litton Automated Business Systems, a division of Litton Industries. He said his examiners will look at it June 4.

Hoffa May Delay Pardon Request

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — James R. Hoffa, former Teamsters Union president whose jail sentence for jury tampering was commuted by the President, says government preoccupation with the Watergate affair could cause him to delay filing for a pardon.

"I think we'll hesitate," Hoffa said prior to a speech Wednesday at nearby Oglebay Park. "The Watergate has everything tied up. We intend to petition the President first, and then the courts if we're not satisfied."

"But we have to have some type of indication on the pardon by the first of September."

Hoffa, 60, was released in December

1971 after serving 57 months in a federal prison.

He said a pardon would enable him to run for the presidency of his home union local in Detroit. Under terms of the commutation he is banned from union activities until 1980.

Communists Attacked

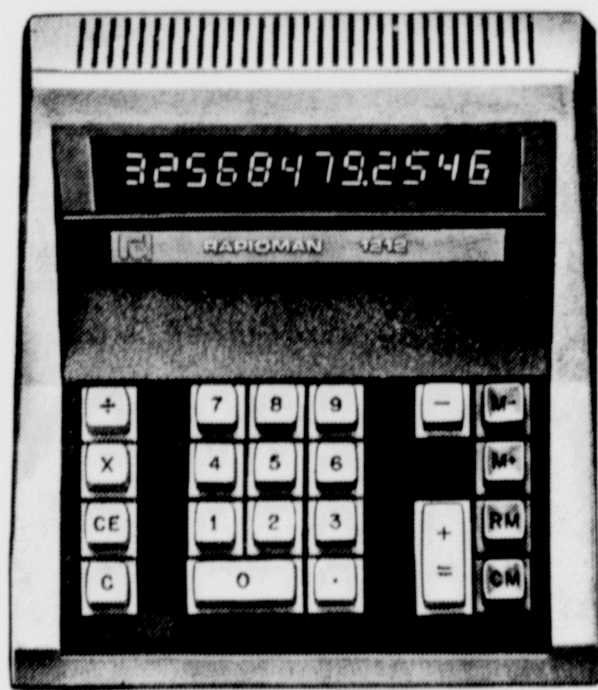

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops attacked a Communist force before dawn today near the central coast, killed 49 men and captured more than 100 weapons and a quantity of munitions, a spokesman for the Saigon command reported.

NEW YORK (AP) — Gallery said it had received 13 requests from foreign broadcast journalists—most of them European—for permission to cover the hearings.

However, it wasn't immediately known how many actually showed up and were accredited. Fifty broadcast journalists had sought accreditation for the hearings, a gallery spokesman said.

Four stationary television cameras were set up to provide the pool pictures of today's opening session, according to Peter Hively, manager of television news coverage for ABC in Washington.

The Senate's Watergate committee, in setting rules for televising or filming the hearings, made only one restriction, said an aide to Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C., committee chairman.

He said the committee barred the movement of cameramen with hand-held cameras from around the witness table once a witness had been seated and begun testifying.

The hearings were to be videotaped in full for broadcast tonight on any of PBS' 234 public television stations wishing to air them. The videotaping and nightly broadcasts will continue until the hearings are over, PBS says.

The two British television reports were to be videotaped at a local Washington television station, edited there, reporters' narration added and then broadcast to London by satellite.

Before the start of the Watergate hearings, the Senate Radio-Television

Memorial Hall Dates Back To Early 1890s

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of five articles which outline the history of the Pickaway County District Public Library. These articles are being presented to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the library.

By JOY RAE
Pickaway County
Library Staff

Memorial Hall, the huge brick and stone structure which stands on the southwest corner of Pickaway and Main streets, is an historical curiosity which has been celebrated, pampered, threatened, and fought over for almost all of the eight-three years it has existed.

It was built during the years 1890-1891 by the Soldier's Monumental Association of Pickaway County at a total cost of approximately $36,000. Most of this money was donated by the city of Circleville with the understanding that it could lease the ground floor of Memorial Hall for 99 years for use as a library and an armory.

The building and the property involved were to be under the authority of the Monumental Association. The plans for this building were furnished by H. C. Lindsey of Zanesville.

On the second floor were located an assembly hall, a relic room, and the lodge room of Groce Post G. A. R. This lodge room had walls inlaid with marble tablets inscribed with the names of soldiers and sailors of Pickaway County.

The third floor contained a dining hall, kitchen, and circular balcony overlooking the assembly hall. Originally, two cannons were located on the front lawn of Memorial Hall. They had been used on the U. S. Gunboat "General Sherman." A portrait of Dr. Marcus Brown, a major contributor to the library, was proudly hung over the fireplace located in the corner reading room, (now the Sneek-a-Peek Room).

On September 12, 1892, the public library was opened in the Memorial Hall, according to the city's lease on the lower floor. Memorial Hall quickly became a major center of community activity. The library featured frequent displays and programs. The upstairs rooms became familiar to the people of Circleville as they attended meetings, banquets, card parties, and dances.

The Monumental Association continued to maintain the hall, but by the 1940's, the Association decided that they could no longer afford to operate it, and they wished to turn this duty over to the County Commissioners. The commissioners were asked to take over the expense of operating Memorial Hall around 1941, and they refused to do so. For the next twenty-seven years the Monumental Association continued to urge the commissioners to accept the responsibility of maintaining Memorial Hall, and the commissioners continued to refuse this "honor".

In 1950 it was rumored that the hall was unsafe, and had been condemned. A thorough inspection was made by state inspectors during that year, and they found it to be very sturdy. They said it was capable of handling large crowds, even on the upper floors. In November, 1950, the hall was closed for a few days because of damage done to its roof during a particularly heavy snowstorm.

In 1964 many physical repairs were made to the hall and especially to the library. At that time, the phone booth and parking meters were installed outside. In 1966 the county commissioners decided that the building had reached the age where it was not worth expensive repairs, and discussed plans to raze Memorial Hall and acquire the adjacent property to construct a new library building. At that time, Memorial Hall was still under the authority of the Monumental Association.

In 1968 the County Commissioners initiated action to officially acquire the property of Memorial Hall. The Soldier's Monumental Association was kept in existence, but the maintenance and operation of the hall became the duty of the County Commissioners. In order to obtain clear title to the building, the commissioners had to file suit to terminate the 99 years' lease held by the city. There was some debate as to whether this suit was still binding. In October, 1969, the commissioners officially accepted the operation of Memorial Hall.

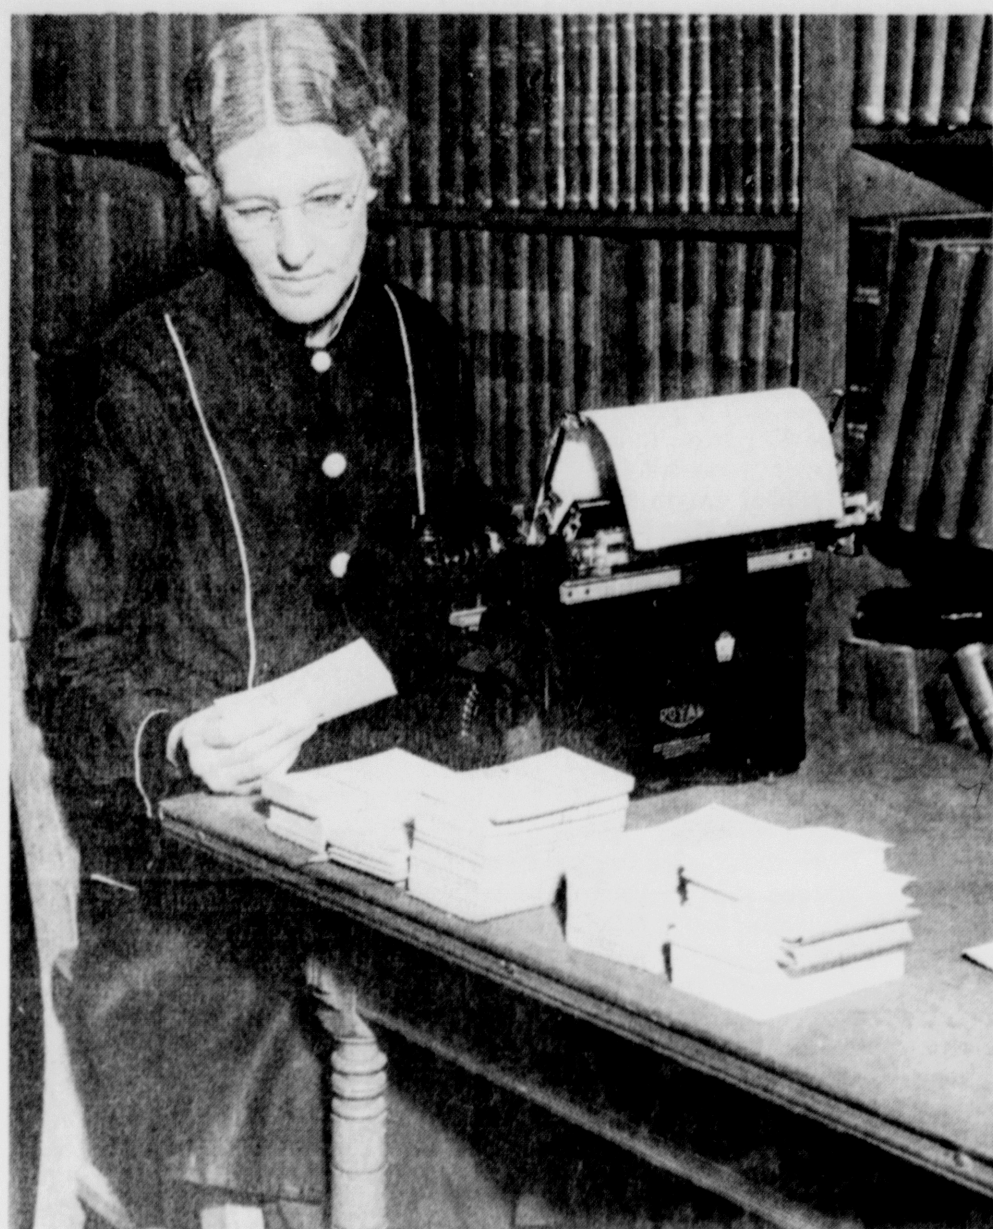

The library now has full use of the lower floor of Memorial Hall, and it has been modernized considerably. The rooms used by the library have recently been paneled, painted, and carpeted. New lights, a new ceiling, and new furniture have been added.

The upstairs rooms of Memorial Hall are now occupied by PICCA and by the Roundtown Players of Pickaway County. These rooms have also been modernized and redecorated. The improvements made by the Roundtown Players to the theatre section of the hall are particularly spectacular.

We may complain about the hall, and call it an old, creaky, ugly building, but it is full of historical significance. When it was built it was described as "...an ornament to the city, a lasting benefit to our people, and a memorial to future generations of the
